The Versatile Titans

By JACK TEAHEN

A big line, a crew of fast backs and a passing attack that has come into its own in recent weeks. That's a thumbnail sketch of the University of Detroit club which takes the field against the Dons of San Francisco this afternoon.

Let's take those features one at a time. That Titan line is the pride and joy of the Motor City eleven. Coach Chuck Baer was a standout lineman himself under the immortal Bob Zuppke at Illinois and has always had a tough gang of guys up front for Detroit. The current Titan forwards are tutored by Bob Ivory, former Detroit great and co-captain of the Titan eleven that opened the series with the Dons in 1946.

Ed Wood is the mainstay of the Detroit forward wall, but you can't overlook Lee Wittmer and Alex Smail. Wood weighs 214 and operates both on offense and defense at right guard. He was All-Missouri Valley Conference and Catholic All-America last fall. Smail is Detroit's heaviest lineman at 234, though he stands only 5-feet-8. He plays defense and is a demon in the middle of the line.

Wittmer is another two-way player. He's the iron man of the team and blocked the kick that gave Detroit its first victory over Villanova since 1942 a few weeks ago. Another big man, Lee weighs 224 and plays next to Wood at right tackle.

Center John Packo is another two-way player. Ends Miles Currie and Pete Bonanni and Tackle Danny Kerins are defensive aces while Tackle Stan Gondek and Guard Nick Galante are the kind of blockers that any ball carrier likes to have in front of him.

That brings us around to the backs, and the Titans are well supplied with both speed and power. Mike Goggins, a block-busting junior, runs from the fullback spot and is a tough man to bring down. The halfback jobs are in the capable hands of Jack O'Leary and Ronnie Horwath.

If this trio has trouble getting started, Baer can replace them with a sophomore crew that features Jim O'Leary, Jack's brother, and Tony Bartalo at halfbacks and either Dick Koster or Dick Abata at full. This dual-backfield system has paid dividends for the Titans during recent weeks.

John O'Connor and Dick Neveux handle the passing chores for the Titans and have given the Midwestern crew an aerial threat just as potent as their admittedly strong running game. O'Connor, a three-year veteran, will probably get the starting call today, but can't figure Neveux as a second stringer. Against Duquesne two weeks ago, Neveux set an all-time Titan record when he passed for 309 yards in a single game.

Much of the credit for Detroit's rejuvenated passing game goes to Earl (Dutch) Clark who joined the staff as an assistant coach this fall. During his playing days with the Detroit Lions, Clark was All-NFL quarterback five straight years.

The revenge motive is much overworked in the realm of sport but, if you wish, you can term today's contest a grudge battle in every sense of the word. San Francisco humiliated the Titans 38-14 before a Homecoming crowd in Detroit last fall, and the Titans weren't a bit happy about it. There are 13 seniors playing their final game for Detroit today and they've decided that a victory over the Dons would be a fitting climax to their college grid careers.

Will they get it? We'll know in a few hours. Right now, let's dispense with the chatter and watch the Titans and the Dons renew a series that has become a high spot of each school's schedule.

YOU HAVE FAILED TO TELL THE TRUTH, SO YOU'LL HAVE TO PAY THE CONSEQUENCES

- (1) You play center, and by letting the opposition through the middle, defeat your own ends.
- (2) Take the ball around end, get hit by a 200-pound back, and become a waffle on the gridiron.
- (3) You're the guy holding the ball in the Statue of Liberty play, when the opposition puts out your lights.
- (4) Go into action for the Barber's College, and get penalized for Clipping.
- (5) You're the best forward-pass blocker in the league, figuratively speaking, but the enemy takes you too laterally.
- (6) Your team is on its own five-yard line. The enemy has the ball. Bring your boys a telephone, and tell them to "Hold the line!"
- (7) Go out and get sugar and cream for the Tea Formation.
- (8) For missing that one, you're consigned to spend the rest of the afternoon running around your own end.
- (9) Substitution! Smith's right tackle. Jones is left guard. And you're left back (in the clubhouse)!
- (10) Try to make an easy buck all along the line, and lose your shirt.
- (11) For missing the one about the Cinderella team, we'll make you the coach until midnight . . . then you turn back into a pumpkin!
- (12) Rub your team down with sandpaper the next time it gets penalized for unnecessary roughness.
- (13) In a rough game, the ball explodes. Everybody else gets a piece of the pigskin as a souvenir. You take a lacing!
- (14) Slice through tackle, and get squeezed in the Orange Bowl.
- (15) Meet a new gal and signal for a fair catch . . . then get thrown for a loss when you try a delayed pass!

DON PLAYERS VIEW THE GAME

[Sports writers, publicity men, coaches, etc., have all been called upon from time to time to author program stories. The Pigskin Review decided that the contestants themselves might know as much about the game they participate in as these gentlemen. This year the Don players will express views in their own words.]

By Left End Merrill Peacock

From a lineman's point of view today's game with Detroit is sure to be a tough one. From experience I know, as does the whole U.S.F. line, that the Titans always have a fine bunch of ball players up front. This year they have an especially fine group, several back from last year's team that we met in Detroit.

Probably the top man we will face is Ed Wood their right guard. He goes both ways and is a top defensive and offensive football player as shown by his being picked on the All-Missouri Valley Conference and Catholic All-American teams last season. Other Detroit linemen who will probably give us trouble are Lee Wittmer, a 220 pound tackle and Alex Smail the Titan's biggest lineman at 234 pounds.

Of course we aren't overlooking the rest of their line for the Titan Coach, Chuck Baer, was a good lineman in his day and has always built a strong group of guards, tackles and ends.

For our own bunch I think our record speaks pretty well for the coaching and the spirit of the team. We have had bad days but have come back and we feel that we can give and take with any team that we face. It looks as though our main task today will be to stop the Detroit passing attack before it gets a chance to get started. In their past several games the Motor City club has developed into a strong team that is liable to score at any time. Stopping the passing and holding their running game in addition to opening holes for our fine backs doesn't look like it will be easy but I think I can speak for the rest of the Don line in saying that we will be in there every minute trying our best to do just that.

By Right Halfback Vince Sakowski

From what we have heard of Detroit they seem to have a fine club that is getting better every game. Being a back I am interested in what the opposition has to offer in their backfield. Off of the records Detroit seems to have added a very dangerous passing game to their always powerful running attack.

In their starting backfield they have a very hard runner in Mike Goggins. Their halfbacks are very fast and shifty and could go all the way at any moment. They are Jack O'Leary and Ronnie Horwath. Jim O'Leary, Jack's brother, is very fast and is especially dangerous on punt and kickoff runbacks. John O'Connor and Dick Neveux, both fine passers, are the quarterbacks. In their Duquesne game the two combined their passing talents to gain 427 yards in the air, Neveux completing 13 for 19 tosses.

Our club is naturally a little disappointed at not beating California when we seemed to have had the jump on them last weekend. However, we feel that we played one of our best games. We all are anxious to see how the Bears will do in the Rose Bowl.

To match the running and passing of the Titans, U.S.F. has some of the best backs on the Coast. This is not just my opinion for I think that the teams we have played and the records will bear me out. Brown and Matson not only offer tremendous threats when we have the ball but are tops on defense. We all are glad to see Senior Roy Barni going so well and one of the biggest thrills of the season for the whole team was his 84 yard punt return to a touchdown against California.

We know that Detroit is coming out here to try and give us a licking but we know that we can win if we continue to play the type of ball we did against teams like Cal.
